INTELLIGENCE OF HORSE SAVES

Last week Samuel Francis was seven miles from home rounding up a small bunch of cattle, and urging his horse at full speed, when the animal stepped into a badger hole throwing the rider violenty to the ground, and breaking his leg and ankle. Mr. Francis, almost stunned and walking upon the broken limb, succeeded in catching the horse, but was unable to mount while the animal was standing; but remembering that the horse had been trained to lie down, he at once spoke to the in-telligent beast, who dropped upon the feet, carrying his rider a distance of five miles where the wagon and another horse were left in the morning. Mr. Francis, though in much pain, succeeded in hitching the horses to the wagon and reaching home in due time. Dr. Lang found the limb in a bad condition, but now has the bones set, and the pa tient is doing well.

Charles Akin, while working in the main shaft of the big mine and managing a machine for undermining coal, received a broken leg. The machine flew back, striking and breaking the limb below the know.

Richfield, Sevier Co., Dec. 29.—Mrs. Amanda Foutz, a widow of this place, lost her home by fire last night. Mrs. Foutz and her daughter, who lives with her, were at the opera house attending a performance there when the alarm was given. It was about 11 o'clock and during the last act of the play. It was with difficulty that the performance was concluded as about half of those present left the building hurriedly. The burned dwelling was constructed of lumber lined with adobe. It is not known definitely how the fire originated, but it is thought to have been upstairs as the roof was all in flames when the fire wast first discovered. On account of the building being unoccupied and the fire having obtained so much headway before its discovery, it was impossible to save but a few articles of the contents. It was learned this morning that the building and contents were insured for titon which will feelly corter.

The officers-elect of the city of Richfield met this afternoon at the office of City Attorney G. T. Bean, where each duly qualified by preparing and filing his official bond with the mayor.

And as the game is played more and players become more proficient in it, they will appreciate it even higher.

ABOUT ENGLISH YEARLINGS. Owners Vie With Each Other For Them-They Don't Pay.

Owners Vic With Each Other For Them—They Don't Pay.

Despite the fact that the high-priced English thoroughbred yearlings of each year almost universally fall to win anything like their original cost, to say nothing of the extra expense incurred by entering them in valuable stakes and the other incidentals of a training season, the most prominent English turfmen continue to vie with each other for possession of the most fashionably bred youngsters each season.

The king has the distinction of having purchased the second highest-priced yearling sold in 1805. He gave more than $19,00 for the chestnut colt Cynosure, by Cyllene (sire of Cicero), out of Nenomoosha. This colt was bred by Lord Londonberry, G. H. Freeman paid more than $25,00 for the vearling bay colt, by Flying Fox, out of Flower of Wit, bred by Sir Tatton Sykes who continues to obtain very high prices for all his yearlings each season, as, for instance, when he sold eight at Doncaster in September for $52,166, an average of $6,520.

A list of twenty-six yearlings, the produce of the best stalions in Great Britain, has been published, with the prices realized by their sale. This twenty-six brought a total of $23,600, or an average of $3,400, and yet there are critics in England bold enough to zay that the chances are all against any of these "four figure" yearlings winning back a reasonably large part of their purchase money. This prediction is based upon the experience of the last twenty-two years, it being shown that in that period 564 yearlings which were sold for a total of $5,119,800 had won in stakes and purses no more that $1,201,825 or only 31 per cent. Very few of these distinguished themselves at the stud, either.

Notable exception as turf performers, however, are Merry Hampton and Sainforn, Derby winners; Paradox, Enterprise, Enthusiast, Klekconnell, Bonavista, Handicapper and Sceptre, 2009 guineas winners, and La Fleche, Memoir, Airs and Graces and others, classic event winners. But even despite the great aid of Sceptre, who was sold as a the air at a distance of 25 feet, without a miss.

Hardy used an ordinary 22-caliber rifle and did all the loading himself. The exhibition developed into a contest of endurance. Hardy and his ball thrower, "Bud" Bowers of Hyannis displayed wonderful staying qualities. The rifle used was not cleaned throughout the performance.

Hardy began the shoot Saturday afterneon and continued until it was too dark to see. The shooting was resumed Sunday morning. Hardy has made a number of extraordinary records with the rifle and is a fancy shot par excellence.

The judges of the shoot were: P. J. Hindmarsh, J. Haynes, J. F. Simpson, E. J. Siebert and C. F. Siebert.

LAVE CROSS "SOLD."

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 31.—Lave Cross, captain and third baseman of the champion athletics, has been sold to the Washington team, and next year will be seen at the third corner for the Stalwarts. The news of the sale of Cross does not come as a surprise to the followers of the game as it was announced at the end of the season that Connie Mack intended to let Lave Cross and Murphy go.

Cross has been playing major league ball for the past decade and more, and nearly all of that time he has been considered as one of the best third sackers in the business. His bow legs and the small sized catcher's mitt that he used instead of a fielder's glove are well known sights to fans.
